Old Skool. Quite chilled for a Jeff Minter game.. I loved Space Giraffe so when I saw this was released for the Rift I immediately bought it. A Jeff Minter game in VR. when played in VR I would honestly suggest that this is one of the most brilliant games ever made.. Had this for the PS4. Bought again for PC and VR. Stunning and fantastic game. It's a trip.. Simple.. Fun game! The graphics and sound pull you into the game and won't let you out. This is going to make me buy an oculus rift.Hope Tempest 4000 is updated for VR too.. Very intense, very trippy, and easy to get sucked into. I love the absurdity and the feel of this game. The vector-inspired graphics are beautiful- just stare at the center of the screen and get pulled in. I know Polybius is a bit of a myth, but if it was real this would be pretty darn close.. Id pay 60 bucks for this game.. This is my favourite Jeff Minter game so far. I thought it was going to be something Tempest-y from the look of it, but it's really more of a surreal driving game. Think Race the Sun, Torus Trooper or Buggy Boy. It's more forgiving than it looks: it hands out extra lives like candy and lets you restart from any level. But there's still plenty of optional stuff to go for if you're doing well. High skill ceiling, low skill floor. Well, low-ish; it's still a face-meltingly fast game. More visually comprehensible than Space Giraffe too. It's good.. This is my favourite Jeff Minter game so far.
